Chandigarh at Laffanour Galerie Downtown

Modernist fans unable to make the pilgrimage to Chandigarh could enjoy a flavour of the Le Corbusier urban project at Laffanour. The Parisian gallery devoted much of its corner booth to a selection of Le Corb and Pierre Jeanneret designed works that were originally realised during the 1950s and '60s following the former's commission to design a new city by the Indian government in 1951. Pieces included Jeanneret's iconic exterior concrete light, teak armchairs with compass-style legs designed for the auditorium buildings of Chandigarh and incredible tapestries. These were combined with furniture by Charlotte Perriand and Jean Prouvé.
